

A word from the Editor

Dear readers,

The idea for the volume Ethnography re(dis)covered came from ethnologists working at the Ethnology Centre of the Institute of Archaeology and Ethnology of the Polish Academy of Sciences. It is the result of the discussion pertaining to the forms and means of celebrating the 60-year jubilee of the Institute, which is also the publisher of the periodical "Ethnologia Polona". We wished to present the most important modern ethnological and anthropological research projects conducted by the ethnologists of our Institute and by scholars from other organizations (both in Poland and abroad) invited to participate in the project. We received articles that discuss the significant problems and research issues studied by Polish ethnologists, presenting their conclusions. We are convinced that the resulting publication will help humanists and specialists in seemingly distant fields of knowledge understand the characteristics of ethnology as a science and the possibilities it offers.
